

The Big Snow

By Joyce Wilson

Copyright © 2015 by Joyce Wilson

The Poetry Porch
www.poetryporch.com

The morning after the big snow, we shoveled and dug to get to the barn and the chicken house.

Wild turkeys came for the sunflower seeds.

The chickens were amazed.

You go first!

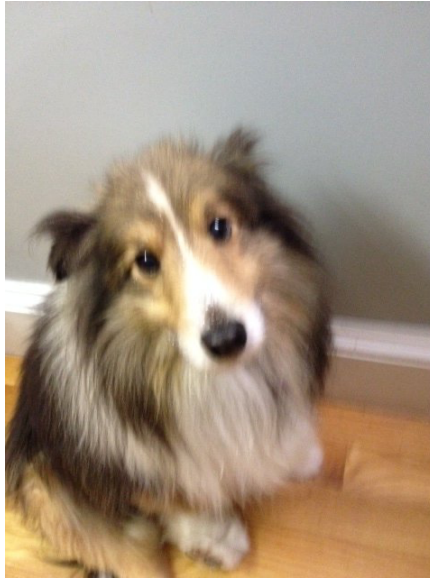

What is this?

Bach, Bach, Bach-Bach-Bach!

This turkey wanted to stay.

Gus did not want to go outside again.

Snowmageddon 2015

Snow summary for Scituate from The Mariner:

Jan 27, blizzard, 21.5 inches

Feb 2, 14 inches

Feb 8-9, 18.8 inches

Subtotal: 54.3 inches (so far)

Feb. 15-16, Neptune, 18-24 inches

Feb 24: showers, 5 inches

Feb 26: showers, 4 inches

Boston, from The Associated Press: Boston's winter of 2015 is now also its snowiest season going back to 1872.

The official measurement of 108.6 inches at Logan International Airport Sunday night topped a season record of 107.9 inches set in 1995-96, according to the National Weather Service in Taunton, Mass.

The final 2.9 inches came in a snowstorm that was relatively tame after a record-setting monthly snowfall of 64.9 inches in February.

The official winter snowfall, measured from December through February this year, is 99.4 inches.

≅|||Γ≅
The Poetry Porch
www.poetryporch.com